INTRODUCTION

Cohabitation is a relationship that exists between people who live together and have sexual relationships without being legally married to each other.

Currently, cohabitation seems to be gaining ground among young people. This is not the right concept when put on the scale of God’s standard.

We shall look at some things that cohabiting will not do and the way out.

 - i. It is not a surety or an assurance that one will really know the behaviour of the other person fully because the heart is deceitful (Jeremiah 17:9).
 - ii. It will not change the negative habits of an individual.
 - iii. It subjugates rather than provides freedom as one is at the whims and caprices of the cohabitant.
 - iv. The unholy act of fornication will not yield a holy sexual relationship (1 Corinthians 6:18; 7:2; 10:8).
 - v. It will not rule out disappointments or skirmishes between the two partners.
 - vi. The security or sustenance of the relationship is not guaranteed
